

CHICKEN COMBS CHART

A quick guide to identifying common chicken comb types.

HenFolk™

Chicken Combs

Single Comb

Pea Comb

Strawberry Comb

Walnut Comb

Buttercup Comb

Carnation Comb

Rose Comb

Cushion Comb

V-Shaped Comb

Created by Beth | HenFolk™

Single Comb

The classic look, tall with distinct points. Found on Rhode Island Reds, Leghorns, Plymouth Rocks, and many Mediterranean breeds.

Created by Beth | HenFolk™

Pea Comb

Three lengthwise ridges, with the middle ridge most prominent. Found on Marans (my Maran roosters all have pea combs), Ameraucanas, and Brahmas.

Created by Beth | HenFolk™

Strawberry Comb

Looks like a strawberry perched on the head. Typical for Malay and Yokohama chickens.

Walnut Comb

Round and lumpy, common on Silkies.
(this pic always gives me Chewbacca vibes)

Created by Beth | HenFolk™

Buttercup Comb

A unique cup-shaped crown. Found on Sicilian Buttercups.

Created by Beth | HenFolk™

Carnation Comb

A dramatic comb that splits and spreads at the back.
Found on Penedesencas and some Empordanesas.

Created by Beth | HenFolk™

Rose Comb

Flat and bumpy, less likely to frostbite, which makes it a great option for cold weather. Seen on Wyandottes, Dominiques, and Hamburgs.

Created by Beth | HenFolk™

Cushion Comb

Low, smooth, and close to the head. Seen on Chanteclers.

Created by Beth | HenFolk™

V-Shaped Comb

Shaped like the letter “V” and also called a horn comb, with two points sticking upward. Seen on Polish and Houdan breeds.

Created by Beth | HenFolk™