CREATE A CALM, CONSISTENT RHYTHM FOR YOU AND YOUR FLOCK.

Morning

- Open the coop. Greet your flock and let them out into the run or yard.
- Refresh waterers: dump, rinse, and refill with clean water.
- Top off feeders: check for damp or old feed.
- Quick flock check: make sure everyone's active and alert.
- Collect any early eggs (if you have early layers).
- Scatter a small morning treat like scratch grains or greens, just enough for fun.
- Optional: Wipe down roost bars or poo shelves if needed.

Afternoon

- Observe your flock. This is the perfect time to notice any changes in behavior, limping, or feather loss.
- Refill grit or oyster shell if needed.
- Spot-clean bedding (scoop any soiled areas).
- Free-range time. Let your flock explore safely if conditions allow.
- Bonus: Snap a few photos or jot a note in your Chick Care Journal; you'll love looking back on them.

Evening

- Count your chickens to make sure everyone's inside before closing up.
- Remove leftover feed if you have rodent concerns.
- Check water levels for the night.
- Close coop door and secure latches (predator check!).
- Collect eggs from the nesting boxes.
- Say goodnight. Your voice and presence keep your flock calm. 💛

Weekly

- Deep clean waterers and feeders
- Refresh bedding or add more
- Clean nesting boxes
- Dust bath top-up (add sand or herbs)
- Inspect for drafts.
- Clean the run. Rake out excess poo, remove loose feathers & old treats.
- Full coop inspection for loose boards, gaps, or pests
- Record egg production or health notes
